A Note from Anne Gahley on the Trail Obstacles at Birt Arena:

I am getting a lot of comments about the trail stuff at Birt Arena. Mel and I donated the original stuff and wagon some 20 years ago. The Buckskin club donated some of the short landscaping poles a few years later. So the material you have to work with is getting pretty worn. Tammi Turpin suggested we use $1,000 of the Exxon Mobile donation to replace some of the materials. I checked with several places and the price of lumber is sky high. Parma Post wants $9.70 for one 8ft pole, $14.15 for one 10 ft pole, $15.60 for a 12 ft pole, and $17.35 for 17 ft pole. We did find some of the landscaping poles at Home Depot for a more reasonable price. The point of this note is we need help finding some reasonably priced poles. We also need some ideas on how to replace some of the obstacles. Please give us some usable feedback. Complaining about it doesn't change it. We need people to step up & help with ideas, poles, money or suggestions on where to buy replacements at a reasonable price. Please send ideas to Anne at my email whats happening ranch@gmail.com.
